It's always good to sleep on important decisions. And in our hotel rooms you'll find all the peace and quiet you need.

“YOU’RE MORE INSPIRED IF YOU’RE RELAXED”

Flipcharts, projectors, seating arrangements – whatever it takes to make a meeting successful, Emanuele Lorusso knows all the options. Before, during and after the event he’s there to make sure everything is as it should be.

A seminar is being held today at Bocken: what are your duties?

The first thing I do in the morning is check the seminar room that has been reserved and make sure it’s clean and tidy. I also check that the tables, chairs, flipcharts and other equipment are set up as requested and planned by the guest with our event coordination team.

What sort of details require your particular attention?

With any meeting it’s important to ensure that everything is in the right place, no matter how insignificant it may seem: for example the moderation material, with pens that work and pinboards. After all, guests are always better able to concentrate on their tasks in pleasant surroundings.

What do you do if something doesn’t quite go according to plan?

Sometimes there have been situations where a microphone did not work right away. But with my experience, I’m always able to come up with a solution to any problem quickly. And if not, one of my colleagues is guaranteed to know what to do.

What makes Bocken ideal as a conference venue?

One of its distinctive features is the array of different buildings, all set in natural surroundings. Thanks to all these areas our guests have a vast selection of options to choose from for their event. Other traits are the flexibility and the warm hospitality of our staff.

What sort of meetings are held at Bocken?

All kinds of seminars by all kinds of companies: from simple meetings for six people to large-scale conferences with three hundred delegates.

What do customers expect of a perfect conference or meeting?

Hospitality, efficiency, comfortable surroundings – and for everything to run even more smoothly than expected.

What’s the most unusual request you’ve had?

We once relocated an entire seminar outdoors into the garden during the lunch break – complete with break refreshments, parasols and ice cream cart.

Your top tips for future conference organisers?

Make full use of the opportunities we have to offer, discuss your wishes and ideas with the event coordinators. After that, you won’t have to worry about any aspects of the organisation apart from the contents of your conference.

ROOM FOR IDEAS

There's no question about it: up here at Bocken you're guaranteed to find the right setting for your conference or meeting. Whether it's a closed meeting for a select few or a two-day training course attended by hundreds of employees: when it comes to conference premises there are (virtually) no limits to what you can have.

Seminargebäude

These bright, open-plan premises provide the perfect setting for learning, reflecting, and coming up with new ideas. Forum 1 and 2 can be combined to accommodate conferences of up to three hundred delegates. Thanks to the adaptable seating layouts and the first-rate technical infrastructure we're equipped to accommodate all your requests, from interactive workshops to product launches and discussion panels. Two interpreters' booths are permanent fixtures in this conference room. The various workspaces are ideal for group work or meetings in small groups. The foyer acts as an informal meeting area during breaks where we also serve snacks and refreshments. The billiards corner is ideal for kicking back after a strenuous round of discussions and recharging your energy levels. Those who prefer their breaks to be activity filled will appreciate the presence of a billiards table and table football.

Reitgebäude

The Reitgebäude, or stables, has lost none of its uniquely distinctive charm, making it a special venue for seminars.

The gable roof lends the 180 m² seminar room (Forum 5) its special atmosphere. The premises also include a gallery for group work for up to eight people. The second seminar room (Forum 6) with views of the grounds accommodates up to 16 participants.

Those wishing to stage their conference on a grand scale will find the historic Reithalle, or riding hall, ideal, with state-of-the-art technology, outstanding acoustics and a wide array of seating layouts. The adjoining bar and the lounge offer a cosy retreat during meeting breaks. And in fine weather there's nothing like stepping outside, into the courtyard. We are happy to serve lunch in both the Reithalle and the Restaurant Artis. And, in the evening, there is no better place to let your thoughts come to rest than the comfort of the Sattelkammer.
